The zigzag functions as a key trope in Wolfson's wonderful new book, Borderlines: The Shiftings of Gender in British Romanticism, in which the standard concept-metaphor for gender criticism—a concentric circle, with patriarchy at the center and women writers at the margins—is abandoned in favor of a fractal field of gender possibilities, a kind of undulating double helix of signs she calls the "border." Disposed along various points of this borderline are four Romantic-era writers ...

This article explores the experiences of Latina lesbian migrants living in the United States. Drawing on in-depth interviews with 15 Latina lesbian migrants, I argue that Latinas' sexual, racial, and class identities are continuously shifting as the process of migration repositions them in a new system of racial inequality.
