A noun clause, also known as a complement clause (une proposition subordonnée complétive), is a group of words that act as a direct object of a verb in the main clause. Unlike other types of subordinate clauses, they refer to a verb from the main clause rather than to a noun. There are three types of noun clauses in French grammar: noun clauses introduced by que, infinitive clauses and indirect questions.

Noun clauses in French - Lingolia

Noun clauses are clauses that function as nouns. Remember that clauses can be either dependent or independent. Noun clauses, like nouns, can be used as either subjects or objects. Noun clauses are therefore dependent clauses and as subject or object cannot stand alone as a sentence.
