The New Comparative Theology Interreligious

This book is an extended, critical reflection on the state of interreligious dialogue in its modern version. While there has been some important writing in the field of comparative theology, there has been no extended, critical reflection on the state of the discipline in its modern version, its strengths and problematic areas as it grows as a serious theological and scholarly discipline. This ...

Comparative theology is a relatively new discipline within theology, which holds together "comparative" and "theology" in creative tension. It represents a particular type of theological practice committed to deep interreligious learning while staying rooted in a particular religious tradition. Moreover, while many of its proponents come from the Christian religious tradition, it can have as a starting point the theology of any religious tradition.
